INVITATION FOR SPONSORSHIP AND EXHIBITION

The 10th International Drainage Symposium will address opportunities and challenges for agricultural production on the world's poorly drained soils and landscapes. The challenge of increasing agricultural production in a changing climate, with ever-greater attention to water quality and quantity concerns, will require technical, economic, and social perspectives. The Symposium will provide an opportunity for drainage research, industry, and practitioner communities to interact, share experiences, and address emerging concerns. We invite business, industry, and agency stakeholders to consider participating in the 10th International Drainage Symposium:
